The strength of a crowd at the peak of its unity; the grace of an athlete, confident and strained; the roar of hundreds becoming collectively one; the individual beauty of a blending effort; the team is at it again.

Four years to study the course of man;
Four years to dream of distant successes;
Four years to discover that the mind is a pool, sometimes muddy, sometimes clear;
Four years to conclude that the learning is not all in the books but in the ever-simplistic yet complex truth of being.

Dynamic living perpetuates itself.
A vibrant person need not verbalize on the beauty of life for his every breath breathes the glory of his existence.

God is not stagnant, nor has He destined any of his creations to be. Exhilarated by spiritual commitment and faith they mount up with wings as eagles, they run and are not weary, and they walk and do not faint.

New Students face Orientation, TU Community

For the new students on Taylor's campus, the week of September 2-8 was a time filled with many new friends and experiences. Beginning with the greeting of new students and their parents on Sunday afternoon, the freshmen began their lives at Taylor. One of the most memorable experiences during orientation was spending Monday night in the woods on the annual freshman campout. The rest of the week was spent in meetings, testing periods, interviews, musical auditions. Friday night entertainment was a concert provided by the McCrarys. The week concluded with the perennial display of freshmen talent on Saturday night in Maytag gymnasium.

The McCrary's, a family musical group, provided lively entertainment for Saturday evening.

Anxiously awaiting their departure in a pick-up truck to an unknown destiny, freshmen contemplate the upcoming activities.

New students anticipate fun and adventure while socializing in front of Maytag before going on the freshman campout.

'Reflections' of Homecoming

Revolving around the theme "Reflections." Homecoming activities began with the bonfire pep rally. Homecoming Queen Pam Ritchie was crowned Friday evening. Accompanying Miss Ritchie were princesses Jackie Macy and Jenny Wysong and court members Carol Habegger, Virginia Taylor, Jan McCauley, Diane Ross and Patty Jacobs. Following the Coronation, alumni and students attended either the Ferrante and Teicher concert or "Taming of the Shrew" presented by Taylor's Speech and Drama department. Saturday's celebrations commenced with the Taylor University Band's "Concert on the Green" along with the display of floats. Sports highlighted Saturday's events when Taylor's Cross Country team captured second place in the Marion College Cross Country Invitational and the Taylor Trojans defeated Wilmington College. Homecoming festivities ended with the first annual Honors Banquet for alumni and an evening performance by Taylor musical groups.

The girls' tennis team enjoyed a successful season. Competition for a position on the team was keen as many girls tried out. Individually, Jodie Kregal placed an outstanding first in fourth singles division. The girls, finishing 4-2, defeating Marion, Huntington. Indiana Central, and Grace colleges.

Cross Country team claims district crown

The 1973 Taylor University Cross Country team had another typical winning season except for one aspect. For the first time in eight years the Trojans failed to win the Hoosier Buckeye College Conference championship. It was quite an upset as the Trojans had recently defeated Earlham, the new champion, rather handily. Coach George Glass stated that he felt much growth and learning had taken place as result of experiencing second place for the first time.

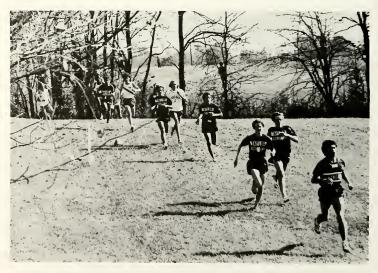

The Trojan harriers were led all year by their outstanding senior and team captain, Taylor Oliver. Oliver placed first and set a new Taylor course record (26:23) in the HBC conference meet. Other season highlights included a very strong showing in a triangular meet against Calvin and Ferris State Colleges in which Oliver set a course record of 25:41. The Trojans successfully recaptured the Taylor Invitational championship with a one point win over Rio Grande College. They also became District 21 NAIA champions with their strong place at the Little-Big State meet held at Purdue.

Other strong runners all season included seniors Al Feeley and Brad Shrock, Underclassmen Steve Gradeless. Tim Rensser, and Dave Lewis also contributed valuable points. Next year should have to be quite a challenge for Coach Glass as the loss of several experienced seniors will undoubtedly hurt.

Trojans explode with powerful offensive attack

After dropping their first two games, Coach Nelson Gould's 1973 fighting Trojans put Taylor fans on their feet with an exciting and varied offensive attack. Led by junior transfer student Rod Shafer, the Trojans filled the air with flying footballs and were a threat to score from anywhere on the field. Utilizing the triple option offense, they averaged nearly 330 yards per game to top the Hoosier-Buckeye Conference in offense statistics.

Taylor's explosive team provided several highlights and nearly captured a conference title. The Trojans defeated Wilmington College 24 to 17 to win Homecoming. Parents Day saw them defeat Findlay College by the same score. A very satisfying victory was the 45 to 12 defeat of The Anderson Ravens. Probably their best game was a narrow 14 to 13 loss to Westminister College who was undefeated and ranked number two nationally.

Losing the conference title in the last game of the season, Taylor finished 4-2-1 in conference play and 4-4-1 overall. Next year will undoubtedly be an exciting year for Taylor football as nearly all of the heavy offensive machinery returns in pursuit of that evasive conference championship.

Trojans are number one passing team in HBCC

All-Conference receiver Mike Rich catches a touchdown pass from Quarterback Rod Shafer.

Sure-handed Mike Rich leaps above two defenders to haul in another long pass.

Executing the triple option with great deception, quarterback Rod Shafer rated ninth in the nation in total offense with 1746 yards. His 14 touchdown passes set a new HBCC record. He was voted starting quarterback on the HB All-Conference team and NAIA District 21 team.

Shafer, an excellent runner, often scrambled to give his trio of elusive receivers time to break into the open. Junior Mike Rich's nucanny ability to leap high above a crowd of players and stab a pass out of the clutches of two or three defenders left many a TU spectator amazed and breathless. His 37 receptions for 610 yards and 6 touchdowns were tops in the conference and gained him first team status on the All-Conference and NAIA District 21 teams.

Senior wide receiver Jim Brown flashed blazing speed to hurn many defenders for long bombs. His 22 receptions and 5 touchdowns gained him honorable mention on both All-Conference and District 21 teams. Junior tight end Jim Norris also gained All-Conference status with his 24 receptions and hardnosed blocking.

Also having outstanding seasons were seniors Steve Zimmerman. Eric Turner, Wade Thompson, and Montie Gardner.

Roving monster man Steve Zimmerman was selected first team All-Conference and NAIA District 21 for his aggressive tackling and ball hawking abilities. Montie Gardner was also cited All-Conference and All District acclaim for his consistent and heads-up play at center.

Kicker Eric Turner had an excellent season as he led the Trojans in scoring with 41 points. He split the uprights for 23 of 23 extra points, giving him 30 straight over two seasons and a three year total of 51 of 54. He added six of eight field goals this season to assure him of first team status All-Conference and All District.

Offensive tackle Wade Thompson, at 6'4" and 235 pounds, was a major force behind Taylor's running game and strong pass blocking. His ability to open gaping holes in opponents defensive lines gained him All-Conference and All District acclaim.

Former basketball star, senior Randy Aalbretsge turned to the gridiron and promptly led the conference in punting with an average of 37.6 yards per game.

Taylor,s running game was led by freshman power runner Jeff Putman and sophomore Randy Walchle. Putman rushed for 545 yards, a 4.8 average and honorable mention on the All-Conference team.

Also gaining acclaim were junior defensive end Miguel Gomez (second team All-Conference) and sophomore defensive middle guard Dennis Hanson (houorable mention All District)

Senior strong man Paul Nitz, an All-Conference performer at defensive end last year, was bypassed this year. Nitz, in addition to playing football and taking a full load of classes, held a job with nocturnal hours which doubtless stifled his potentiality.

Senior guard Russ Hobbs and safety Rich Minnich both will be missed by next year team. What Hobbs lacked in size he more than made up for with quickness and determination. Miunich made an excellent switch from running back to safety.

Joby William and Rich Minnich leap and strain to prevent a pass completion.

Intramural football provides tension outlet

Quarterback Randy Clarkson of Third Morris Brotherhood fires a pass behind the strong protection of teammates while fellow students give encouragement.

Taylor University provides an ontstanding intramural program. Setting up supervised activities in such sports as football, soccer, basketball, softball, and wrestling, the program allows for student release of pent-up frustrations on the athletic field. The spirit of competition is fierce and the play is often for keeps. Strong ties of unity are developed and a sense of teamwork unfolds as teams vicfor a league championship. Thus Taylor strives to provide education in the realm of the physical as well as the mental, social, and spiritual.

Randy Clarkson scrambles out of his pocket.

Field Hockey team has outstanding season

The 1973 Field Hockey A team completed a very successful undefeated season. The only blemish in their record was two ties, both to NCAA major colleges. Miehigan State and Ball State. The girls defeated Goshen, Butler, Earlham, and Cedarville eolleges, and Big Ten foe, Indiana University. Taylor placed a record number of athletes on the Miami Valley All-Conference team. The following girls were selected: Cheri Andrews, Sue Baur, Cyndee Beaver, Elaine Carlin, Winnie Lowrie, Janet Lowrie, Karen Palmer, Anne Tapper, and Bety Wyse. Three girls were selected to the All-Midwest teams, Winnie Lowric. Sue Baur. and Karen Palmer. Karen Palmer was also selected for Nationals, only the second player from Taylor to ever receive this honor.

The B team finished 2-1, defeating Goshen and Marion Colleges and losing to Indiana Central.

Drama groups Select variety Of productions

Talented Taylor students use their acting abilities while portraying various characters in drama productions. William Shakespeare's. "The Taming of the Shrew," initiated the season. Later in the fall, familiar selections including Tom Sawyer, Huckleberry Finn, Life on the Missisippi and others by Mark Twain were presented in a "revue."

Another aspect of the drama department features the Religious Drama Company. This year's two selections are "Christ in the Concrete City" and "The Prodigal Son." This group performs in church services on Sundays throughout the year.

Gremio, who gets a real kick out of jesting with Kate, soon learns not to play with her tattering tongue.

"Heedless joltheads - unmannered slaves"

Not everybody was feasting in merriment at the wedding party in Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew."

R.H. Ward's "Prodigal Son" struggles with his conscience, known as the "presenters" to fill life's void,

P.W. Turner's "Christ in the Concrete City," presented by the '74 Religious Drama Company, portrays the passion of Christ in both ancient and modern settings.

SUB sponsors various activities and entertainment

The Student Union Board, composed of ten students, seeks to provide opportunities in areas of social, cultural and recreational activities. This year SUB was responsible for bringing to campus several music groups and a number of movies. The two main concerts were given by The McCrary's and Ferrante and Teicher in the fall and by Olivia Newton John in the spring. The major movies were My Fair Lady, Tora, Tora, Tora, Butch Cassidy, and Sleuth. There were also several mini movies and concerts during the year.

Fall spiritual meetings involve various talents

Throughout the semester many Taylor students performed at chapel services. Speakers from a wide range of backgrounds visited and shared with the Taylor community on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings.

Rev. James W. Di Raddo, director of Christian Youth Services, Inc., was the guest speaker for the fall spiritual emphasis week. The week of special meetings began on Sunday evening and proceeded with Di Raddo speaking at nightly meetings during the week. Besides these, he devoted much time to small group interaction.

"A Whole Life Before a Whole World" was the theme of the 1973 Missionary Conference, Dr. J.F. Shepherd, Education Secretary of the Christian and Missionary Alliance in the U.S. and Canada and Vice-President-Executive Director of the Alliance School of Theology and Missions at Nyack, N.Y., was the main speaker. This year's conference had five main emphases: a five minute preprogram each evening, personal conferences with the missionaries, the showing of films after each evening service, an international dinner and this year's conference project—Lighthouse, a Christian Education majors group going to Nassau, Bahama to work with children during the inter-term period.

WINTER

The stillness of winter, providing seasons to think;

Wrestling at 150, two time conference champion Cecil Bergen captures a win at Nationals,

Freshman 126 pounder, Glen Geurin is voted the year's Most Valuable Wrestler as he compiles a 34-3 record and places in the top ten nationally.

Taylor wrestlers win TU Invitational

Steve Muterspaw struggles to counter the stand up attempt of his opponent.

Senior 142 pounder George Moore utilizes the navy ride to control his man.

Coach Tom Jarman's 1973-74 wrestling Trojans were led by the outstanding individual achievements of freshman Glenn Guerin. Wrestling at 126, Glen established three all time marks. He pinned his opponents a record 18 times. posted 34 wins, and scored a total of 173 points to break former All-American Dana Sorensen's mark.

The Trojans finished 11-3-1 in dual meets and captured their own Taylor Invitiational and TU Quadrangular. The team made a very strong showing at Little State. as more wrestlers placed than ever before.

The highlight of this year's Wheaton Invitational was the selection of Glenn Geurin as the meets outstanding wrestler. He pinned his way to the 126 pound championship. Glenn's teammates voted him this year's Most Valuable Wrestler as he compiled a 34-3 record and placed in the top ten nationally.

The team selected senior George Moore as its honorary captain. George placed high in several big meets and finished the season with a 28-6 record and seven falls to his credit. The Most Improved Wrestler award went to heavyweight Dan Schmunk and 167 pounder Dwight Lubansky. Dan had eight falls to his credit and Dwight utilized his strong leg wrestling tacties to compile a 20-13 record.

The Blood, Sweat and Tears award went to transfer student Esa Sacklah. Esa, who seriously injured his shoulder weight lifting, came back in time to wrestle at the Conference meet.

Another onstanding wrestler was sophomore Cecil Bergen. Cecil captured the conference 150 pound title for the second consecutive year. He finished with a 31-6-1 record and 137 total points.

Senior 134 ponnder Tom Stobie was having his best season ever when a knee injury forced him to forfeit the latter part of the season. His abbreviated record stood at 14-6.

Senior 167 pounder John Marchak finished his Taylor wrestling career with a 22-11 record. John brought many a Trojan wrestling fan to their feet with his famous double leg takedown.

Another wrestler who was plagued by injuries was sophomore 118 pounder Steve Muterspaw. Steve finished with a 19-12-1 record.

Trojanes play exciting basketball

Paula Strifler and the rest of the Trojanes warm up prior to the game.

Beth Wyse pops in a short jumper.

The 1973-74 Trojanes finished 5-5 in regular season play and 6-7 including tonrnaments. Taylor defeated Valpariso, Earlham, Butler, Huntington colleges and Manchester college twice. High scorer for the season was Andrea Walters and the lead-rebounder was Audrey Satterbloom.

"Go-Go" Gomez maneuvers inside and puts up two points.

"Jumping" Joe Manifold lays in two uncontested points.

Trojans lead conference in free throws

All-Conference selection Gary Friesen struggles for a rebound.

The 1973-74 Taylor Trojans somewhat abandoned their patent fast break offense and adopted more of a patterned attack. They finished 13-14 overall and led the HBC Conference in free throws. The highlight of the year seemed to be the California trip (Point Loma Classic) in which the Trojans upset two favored schools. Junior Gary Friesen and sophomore Sparky Renaker both were selected to the All-Tourney team.

Individually, Gary Friesen led the team in scoring (17.6) and rebounding. He was voted Most Valuable Player by his teammates and selected to the HBC All-Conference team.

Following close behind in scoring were Junior "Go-Go" Gomez (16.6) and Sparky Renaker (16.01). Sparky also led the conference in free throw shooting percentage with .868. Sophomore guards Randy Unger and Stan Daughtery excited fans with their quickness, smooth ball-handling and passing.

Senior Joe Manifold provided brute strength under the boards and often came up with clutch baskets when the team really needed it. Senior Milt Shearer, although not always starting, had many good games in which his all-around shooting, passing, and defense picked the team up. Another senior, 6'7" Tom Moorman, also put in some good boardwork and all-around team play when given the opportunity to play.

With a good recruiting year, and some excellent B-team players moving up Coach Don Odle is excited about starting his 28th season at Taylor. Coach won his 400th career game this season and was inducted into the Indiana Hall of Fame for his outstanding work with youth.

B-Team scores and wins with consistency

Taylor University's B-team had one of their best seasons ever as they compiled a 12-3 record. They successfully avenged two of their defeats with wins later in the season. The third defeat was a narrow 80-70 loss to Big Ten foe, Purdne University.

Brice Brenneman led the young Trojans in scoring (17.0), rebounding, and free throw and field goal percentage. He was followed closely by Jeff Meyer (15.9). Steve Stevens (14.6), Greg Burt (13.9), and Don Granitz (11.2). All five starters scored in double figures, making it very hard to defend against such a balanced attack. Jeff Meyer also led the team in assists with 44.

Most of these young men will be fighting for a varsity position next year, which is a definite bright spot in the 1974-75 Trojan basketball outlook.

An irate father shakes his fist at his daughter in the one-act play by Chekov, "The Proposal." performed by members of the student body.

One-act plays, student directed

Each year the play directing class of the Speech and Drama Department is involved in producing the one-act plays. Each student is responsible to choose a play, select cast members, plan a set and find crews to help produce the play.

This year the class produced five oneact plays; Pocohontas, Adaptation, The Ugly Duckling, The Dancing Donkey, The Bear and The Proposal.

The one-act plays are open to any students who are interested in some acting or technical work that does not require as much effort or time as a major production. Students are encouraged to participate in these productions because of the opportunities available in working with student directors their own age.

The tale of "Pocohontas" is cleverly portrayed in the play directed by a senior speech major.

Actors in "Adaptation" perform a satirical game show on the follies of existance.

A delightful child's tale, the "Ugly Duckling," bring applause from the audience.

The talented cast from "The Dancing Donkey" elicit a favorable response from viewers at the time of the curtain call.

Cultural events Arouse interest

The Cultural Events Committee is composed of faculty and students. They endeaver to bring a number of groups and speakers to campus which expose the student body to the various arts. Events scheduled included musicians, soloists and theatrical groups. These special presentations along with performances by campus groups added another dimension to the academic growth of the students.

Guitarist Javier Calderon and harpist Eleanore Schettler combine their talents to perform a unique concert.

The president of Youth for Christ, Jay Kesler, was the speaker for the spring semester Spiritual Emphasis Week. The Topic was "Foundations for Faith in the '70's." Kesler gave insights into youth's struggles and challenged the Taylor family. He spoke at evening services and chapels and spent time in individual classrooms. Alumni Spring Week focused on the theme "Taylor People Affecting the World." Thirty-four alumni returned to campus to interact with students. The purpose was to bring back alumni in various fields and to provide students with information. help and inspiration in their occupations and spiritual life. Graduates spoke on career opportunities and personal experiences in their major field.

SPRING

The awakening of spring, bursting forth in its glory;

Taylor nine has inconsistent season

The 1974 baseball season was a series of ups and downs, of close games, and rained out games. Failing to get the big hits, the Trojans lost several one run decisions. They finished sixth in the HBCC at 5-5 and overall their record stood at 13-15.

Seniors Randy Aalbregtse. Rich Bowden, Scott Culver, and Doug Rupp played four years of varsity baseball for Taylor.

Doug Rupp, who was the team's only all-conference selection, was voted Most Valuable Player by his teammates. Doug hit an outstanding .482 in conference play this year. His four year .337 batting average places him third on the all time highest batting average at Taylor.

Randy Aslbregtse was the team's leading pitcher with a 4-2 record. Greg Ruegsegger and Dave Webber also pitched well in several games. Defensively the Trojans were strong as evidenced by their 950 fielding average. Shortstop Stan Daugherty in particular covered a lot of ground with success.

The most improved player of the season was Roland Johnson who hit .333 in conference play and stole 13 bases. Freshman outfielder Jeff Putnam had a good year at the plate, hitting .406 in conference play.

Trojans capture HBCC golfing Championship

Taylor University's golf team is coming into its own as a small college golfing power. They have won the HBC Conference championship three out of the last four years. This year's team came from behind on the second day as the whole team shot in the seventies. This put them seven strokes ahead of second place Hanover College with a score of 615.

The team was led by sophomore Sparky Renaker (152), senior Curt Knorr (153), and freshman Don Faimon (154). These men finished third, fourth, and fifth respectively in the tourney to gain All-Conference status.

Taylor also won its own Invitational in convincing fashion. The entire team shot in the 74 to 76 bracket to compile a total of 375 and defeat a field of fourteen teams.

In the District 21 tournament the Trojans missed by three strokes an opportunity to represent the district at Nationals. Don Faimon shot an excellent 72 to finish third behind the state medalist at 69. Curt Knorr shot a 76 to finish eighth. Both of these men were placed on the All-District team.

The golfing Trojans also captured the Manchester Invitational and had a very successful road trip south.

Trojan Netters Totally shutout HBCC foes

The 1974 Taylor tennis team dominated the HBCC tournament as no other school ever has or very possibly ever will again. Taylor destroyed all competitors in singles and doubles play and collected 36 points to achieve a perfect score.

Receiving all-conference and all-district mention were Chet LeSourd, Brian McEachern, and Mike Server. Neal Black also received all-district acclaim. Other members of the history-making team are Pepper Goad and Rod Shafer.

The only senior on the team, Mike Server, who was also captain of the team, played number one singles and doubles competition. Freshman Brian McEachern was voted Most Valuable Player by his teammates.

This year's team played a highly competitive schedule. Carson-Newman and High Point Colleges are two of the top ten in the NAIA. The Trojans also played such NCAA powers as North Carolina (6th in the nation), Ball State, Purdue, and Northern Illinois. Coach Sheldon Bassett, tennis coach-of-the-year, is excited about taking the tennis team to the Nationals for the fourth year in a row.

Taylor track Team wins

Conference

Taylor's 1974 Track team won the HBC Conference meet for an unprecedented eighth year in a row. Led by the outstanding individual performance of Steve Officer, the Trojans amassed 157 points outdistancing their closest competitor by 63 points.

Officer captured four firsts (100,220, long jump, triple jump) and anchored the 440 yard relay team to total 42 points for the day. Officer also broke two school records during the season, long jumping 23 4½" and sprinting the 100 in 9.6 seconds.

Senior Paul Nitz shattered the discus record with a toss of 154°3". Nitz broke records in meets all season and will go on to Nationals competition. The mile relay team of John Good, Mark Younger, Steve Freese, and Paul Brady blazed a 3:19.2 mile to break the old school record. Senior Joel Johnson tied the school record in the 100 yard dash at 9.7 seconds until Officer broke it later in the season.

The first annual Taylor Pops Concert was sheld in Maytag gymnasium this spring. The orchestra, directed by Benjamin G. Del Vecchio, performed various popular pieces such as selections from "Man of La Mancha," "Oliver," "My Fair Lady," "Jesus Christ Superstar," and many more. Dinner was served in a decorated gymnasium. The menu consisted of specially prepared hot and cold foods. The dinner, the music and the semi-formal dress all created a unique and enjoyable atmosphere.

Campus Guests Share with TU

This year there were several prominent people on the Taylor campus. They came from different areas with varied backgrounds. These special speakers ranged from people such as Senator Mark O. Hatfield who spoke in chapel and met informally with many students to people such as the White Roots of Peace, a Mohawk Indian group that spent a day and a half on campus explaining their culture. These guests of Taylor provided for the enlightenment of the TU community.

Taylathon '74 Generates air Of expectation

Taylathon weekend brings on an air of expectation and excitement to the campus. It is a time of rigorous class competition along with fun relay races. A pie eating contest and wheelbarrow race generate enthusiasm and laughter. The highlight of all activities is the Bike-a-thon, which is a sixthy-four lap bike race around the campus sidewalks. The junior class won the event, helping them to become this year's overall winners. The evening included skits, extemporaneous spakers and barbershop quartets performed by talented members of the various classes.

After coming close to a collision, a senior bike rider begins the next lap around the campus.

Youth Conference accents power

"Power to Become," taken from John 1:12, was the Youth Conference theme. Milt Richards, a field representative for Youth for Christ International, presented a pointed and challenging message of the power and potential in the life of a Christian. Discussion groups enabled the delegates to interact and express their ideas in an informal situation. A presentation by the religious drama company, games in the field house, and a musical were part of the activities available to the visiting students. Nostalgia Night featured various music of the 50's and 60's performed by talented members of the Taylor Student body. Saturday night's entertainment included a solo mini-concert in Maytag. The meetings were highlighted by an eighty voice choir accompanied by an ensemble of brass instruments, produced and directed by Taylor students.

Senior Banquet, Baccalaureate, Activities of graduation weekend

Graduation weekend activities opened with a reception in the student center, giving the graduate's family and friends an opportunity to meet faculty members. Following this was the senior recognition banquet sponsored by the Alumni Association. This year's theme was "New Horizons" signifying that seniors are about to embark on a new phase of their lives outside the Taylor community. The program included musical selections, a slide presentation of the university's past and the announcement of the distinguished parents award.

The Baccalaureate Service was held in the Eastbrook High School Gymnasium because of poor weather conditions. The senior class chaplain, Bruce Pratt, delivered a short scripture lesson. The address to students was given by Dr. Oswald C. J. Hoffman, a well known radio speaker for the Lutheran Hour. The topic of his talk was "A Resounding Yes" which presented a challenge to all in attendance.

"Visualizing the Future" was the title of the address Jim Fair gave to his fellow class members. Dean Robert Pitts gave the conferring of degrees to the graduates. An honarary degree was given to Thomas E. Atcitty for his contribution to the Navajo Community College. The familiar recessional melody "Pomp and Circumstance" marked the end of life at Taylor for the new alumni and the beginning of a completely different life and future.

Year ends with Varied activities

As the school year draws to a close, students spend time both studying and relaxing. Those who have light exam schedules can spend time having pictures or "soaking up the rays" at the lake. Some find secluded places to study while others try to both concentrate on their books and enjoy the sun at the same time.

Between exams, students find time to paint chairs that will be used in apartment next year.

Although the pressures of exams are great, for some there is no better place to study than outside in the warm air.

There's no reason to stay inside to study when MCW has a fire escape that can be made very comfortable.

Finals week brings with it late nights.

Women share Experiences in Residence halls

Residence halls offer many experiences and opportunities for fellowship for the Taylor female. Learning to share with others evolves through the many popcorn parties, prayer meetings and special events. Some of these include ringdowns, prayer breakfasts and dorm sessions with speakers from the Taylor community. These activities are shared by girls in the three female residence halls: M.C.W., South Hall and the newly renamed Grace Olsen Hall. Dorm life not only involves growing as individuals but also learning to function together as a family.

"Oh. good grief . . ." Carol did it again! As she relaxes on her bed, wing mates drop by to cheer her up.

Residence hall women spend a leisurely evening reading together in the quietness of their room when all their studying is done.

Many girls find themselves staying up late putting finishing touches on a term paper.

Studying sometimes become too much.

When there is no studying to be done, Wengetz men play a game of chess to pass the time while working at the desk.

Men's dorm life encourages closer friendships

Life in the male residence halls is frequently full of action and excitement. Wrestling matches and goofing off are a familiar sight in the lounges. The men can be seen up at all hours of the night talking and discussing intramural strategies. Bibles studies are held on the individual floors of the three men's dorms, Morris, Wengatz and Swallow Robin. When it's time for studying, residents may retreat to the privacy of their rooms. Living together on this casual basis serves to build strong friendships and to strengthen spiritual relationships.

Apartment life Adds to growth Of TU co-eds

Apartment living allows freedom to the students desiring quietness, distance from campus and privacy. Students living in the apartments are responsible for preparing their own meals, budgeting their finances and attempting to keep their "homes" clean. Married students seek the apartments as their first home together. The apartment life also offers to students various activities, programs, prayer groups and fellowship. One of the greatest assets in the apartment complexes is the sharing of experiences with one another.

Two regulars, Gabriel the dog and Baby the cat, also known as the official pets of the apartments, lounge in the grass waiting for everyone to come back after classes.

Wheels travel widely for Christ

Wandering Wheels is known primarily for its annual coast-to-coast tours involving 50-100 young men each year. It has expanded since its conception on 1964 to include many shorter trips both in the U.S. and abroad, and a program involving two buses. Possum I and Possum II.

Taylor students have played significant roles in most Wheels trips as riders or as full or part-time staff. Every year members of the Taylor family participate in tours scheduled to coincide with the school calendar such as the Inter-Term and Spring Break trips in Florida, weekend Possum trips, and the summer tours.

SGO stresses Communication

Under the leadership of Mike Czerniak and Bruce McCracken, Student Government Organization works to meet the diverse needs of the student body. Some contributions SGO has made this past year include installing pop machines in the dining commons and new flags for the chapel. They have also purchased more refrigerators for their student rental service and bought another school van. SGO sponsored lawyer Charles Morgan who gave his opinion on why President Nixon should be impeached. Each senator represents approximately 100 students and works on election, academic policies, general needs and change.

Music club provides to all music majors such opportunities as attending the I.U. tour of the opera "Posca" by Giacomo Puccini and listening to a lecture on Christian witness in music. The Taylor band, under the direction of Corlyle Drake, has about 60 members. They have traveled throughout the Midwest performing concerts in churches and high schools. Oratorio, composed of all Taylor students interested in vocal music, combined with Marion College Community chorus and the Marion Philharmonic Orchestra to perform at Christmas "The Magnificent" by Bach. Their spring concert, conducted by Dr. Clark Bedford, was "Oh, Praise the Lord with One Consent" by Handel and "Te Deum" by Verdi. The Chorale Christmas concert was a vesper candlelight service. Over spring vacation, the members traveled through the Eastern states performing their varied selections of songs.

Trojan Players Aid productions

Trojan Players is a club in which students are given an opportunity to develop theatrical skills through participation in various productions. Responsibilities in the plays include acting, costuming, makeup, and set design. This year the Players presented four major productions and five one-act plays. The drama department began this year's season with Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew," and ended it with "American Primitive," a dramatic presentation with social and political implications. Two other major productions were the "Glass Menagerie" and "Mark Twain." The organization also allows for furtherance of theatrical interests through other various activities. Students with high academic records and extensive involvement in the theatre are invited to join Alpha Psi Omega, an honorary society.

Groups develop Interest range

The Black Student Organization is a newly formed club on Taylor's campus. The students have sought to promote an awareness of the Black culture and its needs in urban and rural environments as well as on Taylor's campus. In an effort to reach out to other Blacks, the club is offering a scholarship enabling a student to have the opportunity to attend Taylor. The club accumulates its funds through concerts in which the Afro-American students themselves display their musical talents. These black students have become a valuable asset to the Taylor community.

The Art Club was re-established this year due to the increasing interest of the Taylor student body. Workshops such as photography, macrame and ceramics have been initiated to promote interest for non-majors as well as art majors in the art field.

SEA promotes Development in Education field

SEA is an organization which provides information and programs relevant to all elementary and secondary education majors. This year at their monthly meetings they had programs dealing with such topics as the perceptual motor problems of children and the various options for a junior practicum in education. Students were also given the opportunity to hear a former Taylor graduate speak on his experiences as a guidance counselor.

Campus groups Involve science, Business majors

Science club is designed to meet the needs of the entire student body and is not exclusively for science majors. The organization consists of students who are interested in contemporary scientific development in fields such as chemistry, physics, biology, mathematics, and computer science. Alpha Phi Iota provides an avenue for students who are anticipating entrance into the medical profession. Meetings in these clubs consist of speakers who come to share insight they have obtained while practicing medicine, devotions, and a variety of programs. Business club is composed of majors who desire to further their involvement in the profession while students at Taylor.

Cultural groups Sponsor events

French, German, Spanish, and International club meetings give students an opportunity to become acquainted with the customs of the various countries. French club viewed the play "L'Avare" which featured French actors. Matthias Teipel, a German exchange student residing in Hartford City, spoke to German Club members on social, spiritual, and academic problems, A Field Day which included singing, skits, and pinatas, as well as 250 interested high school students was sponsored by Spanish chib members. International club is composed of students from various foreign countries. They share views of their respective cultures. Taylor students in these organizations may study abroad and through this involvement come to understand other cultures.

Staff combines Efforts, creates Ilium for 1974

This year, the Ilium staff, under the direction of co-editors Debbie Stoutland and Gary Horning, strove to capture the highlights of the school year. The organization emphasizes a seasonal theme using a chronological order of events.

Many long nights were spent in the office laying out pages while associate editor, Frank Bargerhuff, spent hours in the darkroom. With the help of the section editors and other devoted students, the final deadline was met for the fall delivery.

Echo covers more campus events, world affairs.

The executive editors of the Echo agree that producing a weekly newspaper is a job that keeps everyone busy. On Monday night all the writers turn in their stories. Each story in read by at least three different copy readers before it goes to the printer on Tuesday morning. Wednesday in the busiest day of the entire week. The staff works until early Thursday morning laying out pages, cropping pictures, squeezing in more ads, answering the telephone, correcting galleys and doing all the little jobs that must be done before the editors can paste up the paper. This is done on Thursday at the Hartford City News-Times, publisher of the Echo. The final product, a completed newspaper, is printed Friday morning. Members of Alpha Phi Gamma, a journalism honorary society, represent Taylor in the national organization. Membership is for life, and entrance is based on an individual's contribution to the world of journalism through involvement with the yearbook or newspaper.

Staff members work diligently in the Echo office to meet the Monday evening deadline.

Officers, PA's, ICC encourage Student activity

The interclass council, class officers, and personnel assistants serve as a central point of communication between students and administration. The class officers organize and promote class activities. Class day, bikeathon, and other interclass competition are a part of the responsibilities of the interclass council which is composed of selected class officers. The council attempts to communicate administrative policies to the Taylor students to lessen the possibilities misunderstandings between either group. Committes require involvement

One of the highlights for this year was "Reflections," the 1973 Homecoming. Good organization by the steering committee resulted in a memoriable week end. Leadership, scholarship, and character were some of the guidelines the Student Life Committee used in selecting seniors for Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges. Each fall the Who's New makes available important information to all students plus introducting the new freshmen and transfer students. The Community Action Council promotes student involvement in the community through such organizations as Good News clubs and Encounter.

Spiritual groups Involve students

Inter-Varsity is a club which promotes Christian fellowship and evangelism. Eighteen Taylor students sponsor five weekly youth clubs which incorporate spiritual, physical, and social insights into the meetings. CAF meets each week for prayer. Bible study, and fellowship. TWO promotes opportunities for Taylor students to do summer work in foreign countries. Through the dedication and effort of The 1973 Youth Conference cabinet, many high school students were exposed to Christ in a college campus environment.

President, Administrative Council lead university

Dr. Milo A. Rediger, President of Taylor University, gives leadership to the school and is also actively involved in many community projects. During his 31 years at the university, he has served as a professor, the Dean of the Faculty and the President. The past few years have seen him working on an extensive building program which is still in progress.

The Adminstrative Council, under the leadership of the President, consists of the President, the Dean of the University, the Vice President for Business Affairs, the Vice President for Development, the Dean of Students and the Director of Student Ministries. The members of this Council are involved with decision making for the university.

Math, Physics stimulate majors

The Taylor math department added a new feature to the campus this year. The Math Club became an institution in the spring although it held monthly meetings all year. The club featured guest lecturers, math movies, student projects, math games, and was highlighted by an evening Christmas party in December.

Another recent innovation is the advanced topics course which is offered primarily to those students interested in teaching. This course includes sections on logic, geometric construction, number theory and complex numbers; it is designed to aid the prospective teacher in content and methods. The department also entertained area high school students in the third annual math field day.

The physics department has obtained a liquid nitrogen solid-state X-ray detector. This year also marks the completion date of the accelerator on which students have been building for several years.

Two new computers have been acquired. One is a General Automation 18-32 which is ten times faster than the I.B.M. previously used and the other is a Digital 1140 which they hope to tie in the entire campus with this term. Because of this, a systems major has been added to the curriculum. A Lily Endowment grant funded the systems program.

Stress relating To environment

The biology and chemistry departments are preparing students for professions ranging from teaching to resource management through a wide variety of learning experiences. Modern equipment and facilities complement the courses and provide opportunities for individual initiative. Practical experience is available through grading, working in the stockroom, lab assistantships, and senior independent projects. Practicums aid in additional experience in laboratories and various industries off campus and research projects are executed under this program as well. The biology department has further developed the AuSable field station as another asset for the students. Environmental studies have gained attention as related problems have developed allowing for academic study as well as practical pursuits. Currency is a major theme of the department and therefore attempts are made in all areas of the life sciences and chemistry to acquaint students with developments and research in these fields. This serves to broaden the experiences of Taylor Science majors.

Majors visit NY

The business department is constantly growing in its efforts to present Taylor students with professional situations both on and off campus.

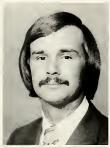

Once again this year senior business majors spent a week in New York visiting various organizations such as the New York stock exchange, the New York clearing house, and McCaffery and McCall Advertising Agency. While there they also had the opportunity to visit Merrill Lynch, department stores such as Macy's and Gimbel's, the World Trade Center and the United Nations. Through their four years at Taylor, the majors have broadened their horizons of learning nationally.

PE mastery offers opportunities

There are many opportunities open to the physical education majors including education, recreation, and physical or corrective therapy. Seniors were involved in a workshop dealing with perceptual motor which gave them some new insight into teaching at the elementary level. In helping to relate their field to the Christian life, they also spent several sessions discussing topics such as church recreation programs and methods of communicating Christ in the public schools. Seniors are able to teach beginning courses on campus, also.

Language incorporates programs

The modern languages department, including French, Spanish, and German, has featured some exciting accomplishments in the area of communications this year. Several French majors spent the summer studying and traveling in France. Such programs of practical experience have proven vital in the lives of foreign language students.

Another feature is the Mexican Study Program during interterm. Spanish students as well as other Taylor students are offered the experience of communicating in a culture different from their own.

German students were also able to learn as with the European tour as Practicum or Capstone during the month of January.

The modern language department offers its students as introduction and study of the language, lives, and cultures of people everywhere in the world. By lab, travel and study majors are able to teach and interpret.

English, library stress literature

Majors in English find a variety of ways to use their liberal arts training. Teaching in the United States, studying, traveling, and teaching abroad, entering library science, writing for commercial companies, working in publishing houses and doing editorial workshops for magazines, writing scripts for radio programs, and serving as receptionists are some of the jobs available upon graduation.

Extra-curricular supplementals are an essential part of the English major's education. Some of these items include the Writers Club, the Taylor Literary Magazine, English Symposium, the Ilium, the Echo and Alpha Phi Gamma.

The library offers an open stack area, copying and microfilming facilities, and a rare book collection. Study rooms are also available after library hours.

Social Studies Inspect man's Growth, actions

In the Social Studies department, which is comprised of the disciplines of Political Science, Geography and History, students develop an understanding of human growth and activity from ancient to present times. A thorough study of the earth's historical development, its geography and its governmental process is provided, and this education is enhanced with such things as actual participation in seminars and model forms of legislature, with trips to historic sites and museums, and with internships in local and federal government offices.

Student teaching Prepares majors

The elementary education department provides its majors with an opportunity to develop a curriculum and explore its potential during their student teaching term. This professional twenty week term affords the majors a final chance to strengthen their methods and style of teaching and to shape their educational philosophy before actually entering the teaching field. During capstone majors work with students in the area of reading improvement. This way they learn to deal with remedial problems applicable to their future classrooms. Majors are thus exposed to a well rounded currienlum as well as provided with a practical chance to explore this knowledge.

Majors pursue Outside study

The sociology department added to its ranks this year two new faculty members, one of them specializing in the area of social work. There were also some added course offerings.

Some students spent a semester at the Urban Life Center in Chicago studying, while at the same time experiencing different aspects of the city.

Among the many other needs fulfilled by the psychology department for Taylor students was a new evening course offering, the exceptional child.

Observing public school classes of special students is also a feature.

Speech, Drama Project images

The 1974-75 year for the Speech and Drama department produced a number of events, beginning with William Shakespeare's, The Taming of the Shrew, followed by a Mark Twain Production adapted by Allen Goetcheus for Chamber Theatre, complete with a reproduction of a Mississippi showboat, and period costumes.

This year's Religious Drama Company presented two plays to 26 different churches, including D. W. Turner's Christ in the Concrete City and the Prodigal Son by R. H. Ward.

The spring term brought two more major productions beginning with Tennesse William's The Glass Menagerie and concluding with William Gibson's, American Primitive.

The Trojan Debate team participated in the 5th annual debate tournament held at Heidelberg College.

Majors Create For art shows

This year's art majors spent the majority of their time preparing for the exhibiting of their talents in shows held during their senior year in the Chronicle-Tribune Gallery.

During Capstone, the senior art majors were required to do an in-depth study on what was for them some previously unexplored medium or technique.

Randy Landon, a junior art major, works creatively at sculpturing a piece of pottery for an art contest.

Music program Aids majors in Practical goals

The music department began the year with several changes. The record library was moved to allocate more room, and new turntables were added in the listening lab for a more complete resource system.

The senior capstones during January gave students the opportunity to do extensive research in an area of music in which they were most interested. Topics ranged from opera to marching bands, including a wide spectrum of subjects between both.

This year also presented a variety of concerts by the chorale, oratorio, and band and orchestra, as well as senior and faculty recitals.

Bible seniors Relate history

The religion department offers a foundation for those who wish to concentrate their lives on the ministry of Jesus Christ. In order to individualize studies, three areas of concentration have been designed to allow each person to pursue his interests and potential. Bible Literature familiarizes students with the basics of Bible knowledge and provides adequate foundation for those who plan to attend seminary. Christian Education emphasizes that a person become mature in Christ in order to relate Him to others. Missions relates the historical setting to a practical application today.

Books are put aside and the lake and tennis courts beckon as the long awaited days of summer finally approach.

Sitting under a tree is a relaxing way to spend a quiet spring afternoon.

Good-byes for the summer are said among friends throughout finals week.

Bicycles are a familiar sight on Taylor's campus during the warm spring days.

Those last days of school get very frustrating, so to relieve tension, Morris men wallow in mud football game.

Closing thoughts

After many long, busy hours, the 1974 Ilium has become a reality. The format of the book is in cronological order using the three seasons of the year as dividers. This book would never have been a finished product without the help of many cooperative people. Our sincere thanks to . . . Mrs. Marilyn Walker. our adviser, for always being available, encouraging and cheerful when we needed her . . . Mr. Larry Glaze, our Paragon representative, who guided and worked with us. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Norm Cook, for their help with photography . . . Mr. Larry Miller, for his willingness to take, develop, and print much needed pictures at the last minute . . . Mr. John Flemming, for working in the dark room . . . Mr. Wilbur Cleveland, for sharing his pictures with us . . . the Marion Chronicle Tribune for sports photos on pages 44, 45, 65, 76 . . . the Echo staff, for coming to our aid many times with information and pictures . . . you, the Taylor students for making the Ilium come alive.

Sincerely,
Debbie Stoutland
Gary Horning
Ilium Editors-in-Chief

The 1974 Ilium is printed on 80 pound Patina by Paragon of Montgomery, Alabama. The page size is 9 inches by 12 inches. The body type is 10 pt., the caption, index, and directory is 8 pt. and the headline is 24 pt. All are Bodoni Bold.

The S.K. Smith Company of Chicago, Illinois, produced the cover. The base material is green grandee imitation leather with ivory applied to the design and backbone. Shrunken leather grain was used. End sheets are vibra color India cover weave by Paragon.

"Somebody said the Ilium is finished. Boy, are we glad!"
